CIPS Regina March 11 Luncheon: 'An ECM Roadmap Vignette Toward Information Governance'

CIPS

Gartner defines information governance as the specification of decision rights and an accountability framework to ensure appropriate behavior in the valuation, creation, storage, use, archiving and deletion of information. It includes the processes, roles and policies, standards and metrics that ensure the effective and efficient use of information in enabling an organization to achieve its goals. Toward achieving information governance, an organization must have a realistic, practical and achievable plan.

CIPS PEI March 13 Curling Fundraiser

CIPS

CIPS PEI is happy to announce the 2014 CIPS Curling Fundraiser Event will be held on Thursday, March 13th. As with previous years, this is a "for fun" event and no previous curling experience is required to participate. Curling is great social event for networking since teams play two (4 end) games against other teams — not to mention the camaraderie fostered with fellow co-workers and teammates!

Resisting the move of governments to regulate the Internet

IT World Canada

Do you believe that governments should be involved in regulating the Internet? Governments regulate almost everything else, but the Internet has evolved quite well without it. In December the International Federation for Information Processing (IFIP) issued a statement on intentional weakening of security and trust mechanisms in ICT and the Internet by government agencies and other major actors.

CIPS Calgary March 14th Luncheon: 'Taming Big Data with Visual Analytics'

CIPS

Big Data can be overwhelming to manage and difficult to find business value that's buried there. In this presentation, Yogi Schulz will contrast marketing hype and dysfunctional project ideas with best practice recommendations for the following topics:

1. Identifying big data opportunities
2. Mitigating big data challenges
3. Selecting visual analytics software packages
4. Implementing systems based on a visual analytics software package

CIPS Edmonton March 26th Dinner: 'Change, Complexity, and the IT Professional'

CIPS

It's an interesting time to be an IT professional working in any role. Interesting, challenging, and at times really uncomfortable. We know that we're experiencing (and in some cases expected to lead) change, but do we really understand the nature of different kinds of change and how to navigate them successfully?

Featured Whitepaper: CIOs driving the customer-activated enterprise

CIPS

This report from IBM's Institute for Business Value summarizes the results of more than 4,000 interviews with C-suite executives worldwide about the changing role of technology and the Chief Information Officer (CIO). Learn how the role of the CIO has changed in the last five years, from running a department geared toward managing pipes and boxes to one that is moving closer to the customer — from the back office to the front lines, where marketing, sales and customer service teams work to attract and retain customers.
