Featured Whitepaper: 'Making Disaster Recovery Easy'

CIPS via IT World Canada

Usually when you hear someone talking about fast disaster recovery, they're talking about fancy new technologies that give you a leg up on your recovery.

Sure, virtualization, image-based backup, and cloud computing can all contribute to fast recoveries, but there's something else you can do to make sure you have fast, reliable recoveries and it doesn't cost you a dime.

Line of business to dominate cloud spending

IT World Canada

Line of business (LOB) will lead cloud adoption in as little as two years. According to a new survey called "Hosting and Cloud Study 2015," the majority of marketing departments (57 per cent) will run 60 per cent or more of their business applications in the cloud within the next two years. This is significantly higher than IT departments, of which only 34 per cent of respondents said they would run 60 per cent or more applications in the cloud.
