The process begins with asking for the voice of stakeholders through a short online survey. READ MORE

Fact and opinion are not binary options

IT World Canada

I've been reading discussions this week about what is truth and what is opinion. I think (just my opinion) that IT professionals avoid ethics discussions because they want to stick to facts. According to this writer who was fed up with students voicing their opinions, there is a problem where people think their opinion is valid even when the facts contradict it. READ MORE
