Featured Whitepaper: 'Sleeping through the Alarm — What Breaches Should be Telling Us, and Why the Message is Missed'

CIPS

Warning bells are ringing as the volume of breaches continues to escalate, yet many security professionals are confidently employing tactics that no longer meet emerging threats head on. Instead of meeting emerging threats with an approach that will thwart them, many of today's security professionals are confidently using steps that almost certainly leave organizations open to being successfully targeted by cyber-attacks.
